

Pat's Learning Annex

Newsletter: September 7, 2006

Presented to our Perfect Parents:

Because of Labor Day, we, your creative kids enjoyed extra, exciting experiences with an added day of fun this week. On returning to our stinky school, we worked hard on our Pirate Alphabet book. We picked letters and wrote the text. Next week, we will work on amazing artwork. We continue to read about pirates, treasure and our group book, Treasure Island. Long John and the plundering pirates have attacked and our heroes have won the battle. We are anxious to see if they find the terrific treasure and sail home for safety. We also finished watching the movie Hook. It was awesome.

Kyler brought in his fuzzy, funny Bunnies. We were distracted by their cuddly cuteness so Precious Pat let us play with them for a while. Next week Clare and Megan and Tiarnan may bring in their super souvenirs from the Renaissance Fair.

In math we measured ourselves with silly string and compared our height to other objects to see if they were bigger, smaller or the same. The older kids used their height strings to study ratios.

Yesterday we created a caterpillar colony, while Ella and Vivian studied fabulous food science with Mark. In Geography and History we got a new Exciting Explorers map and started talking about Christopher Columbus.

Due to scheduling conflicts, we have postponed our fall class trip until September 27 and 28. Tomorrow we plan to play in the park if there is wonderful weather. Otherwise we will ice skate. We are planning a wild wacky wheel day for September 15.

Notice: Hot lunch will now be served on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

*That's all for now,
Tiarnan the Terrifying and Megan the Marauder*